The Secretary to the Hon'ble the Resident

Revised aluminium Control order.

The Aluminium Control order of British India was adopted in Mysore at the request of the Residency. The order was later amended in order to give effect to certain suggestions made by the Residency in this matter. The order in British India has been superseded by a similar order made in June 1941 and it is now suggested that we might take such action in this matter as is considered necessary.

The following appear to be the differences between the old and the new order,

1. Form Certificates in Form A may now specify the amounts of aluminium that may be used monthly. The quantity is no more limited.

2. The Authorities in Form B do not now necessary certify the corresponding aluminium. The word such is omitted as it was necessary only for sale.

3. The old Form C is now to be used for the first returns under the order and a new Form D to be used for subsequent monthly returns.

It appears convenient that we also issue a revised order superseding the one so that these changes may be incorporated and kept into effect.

The Residency suggests that the aforementioned

OFFICE OF THE PRIVATE SECRETARY TO HIS EXCELLENCY THE VICEROY.

NOTIFICATIONS.

Simla, the 21st June 1941.

No. 96-H.—His Excellency the Viceroy is pleased to sanction the following awards for gallantry in action in the Middle East :—

The Indian Order of Merit (2nd Class).

No. 16249 Lance Naik Bhaira Ram, 6th Rajputana Rifles. 6th February 1941.

This non-commissioned officer displayed conspicuous valour and devotion to duty in the face of the enemy. After a day of continuous shelling and attempts by the enemy to evict his company from its position, Lance Naik Bhaira Ram was left in command of a platoon reduced through casualties in strength to only seven men. When the enemy launched a night attack the brunt of it fell on his two small platoon posts. A platoon of a neighbouring unit located in his immediate vicinity was forced to withdraw ; but nothing daunted this lance naik, and he continued to defend his area with the utmost vigour, knowing full well that, if the enemy penetrated his position, the safety of the complete battalion locality would have been seriously endangered. By both personal and controlled use of bayonet and grenade, not only did he drive the enemy off, but himself with two men pursued the enemy down and off the ridge to his immediate front. At the conclusion of the attack eleven enemy dead lay around his post, whilst numerous others were visible the next morning down the ridge to his front. His personal bravery and the magnificent example he set to his small force undoubtedly saved the situation from becoming critical.

No. 11440 Havildar Sheodan Singh, 6th Rajputana Rifles. 12th February 1941.

He was severely wounded by a mortar bomb in the left arm early in the attack. He bound up his arm and finally led the last assault on his company objective with five men. On reaching the objective he was again very seriously wounded by two enemy hand grenades. Supporting himself on a tree he continued to throw hand grenades at the enemy until he was hit a third time and fell down the hill. He displayed gallantry and leadership of the highest order and the most complete disregard of personal danger. His example was an inspiration to all.

No. 12533 Naik Ujagar Singh, 11th Sikh Regiment. 12th February 1941.

This non-commissioned officer displayed outstanding gallantry and leadership. In the face of considerable enemy fire from small arms, grenades and mortars, he moved ahead of his section and succeeded single handed in capturing an enemy machine gun post. He shot down two enemy with his rifle and then after throwing grenades into the post entered it and bayonetted the remainder of the post, capturing the machine gun and a revolver. In spite of being severely wounded by a grenade immediately after, he insisted on staying with his men until he was definitely ordered to withdraw to have his wounds dressed.

No. 11773 Naik (P|A Havildar) Bhima Ram, 6th Rajputana Rifles. 6th February 1941.

This non-commissioned officer displayed gallantry and complete disregard for his own safety when commanding a platoon in action. In spite of being wounded three times, he refused to leave his command. Although his platoon was reduced in strength to only 8 men he continued to hold on and set a fine example of tenacity and fearlessness which undoubtedly went a long way to help in the retention of his position so heavily counter-attacked by the enemy. Only when he could carry on no further was he evacuated to the R. A. P. and then only under orders from his company commander.

No. 5478 Naik Vishnu Mane, 5th Mahratta Light Infantry. (Deceased).

For great gallantry and devotion to duty. On the night of the 11|12th January 1941, when advancing to the attack, the vickers berthier gunner of his section was hit and fell from fire from a concealed machine gun about 20 feet distant. Naik Vishnu Mane was himself severely wounded ; nevertheless he seized the vickers berthier gun and fired burst after burst into the machine gun post. Later, he was mortally wounded but continued to fire until he had silenced the enemy gun. His section was then able to advance on to its objective destroying the machine gun on the way. Throughout this and previous action, this non-commissioned officer's conduct was beyond praise. His conduct and example were always of a very high standard.

(His widow, if any, is admitted to the pension of the 2nd Class of the Order, with effect from the date of his death.)

EXCESS PROFITS TAX.

The 21st June 1941.

No. 18.—In exercise of the powers conferred by sub-section (1) of section 11 of the Excess Profits Tax Act, 1940 (XV of 1940), the Central Government is pleased to make the following rules for the granting of relief in cases where, in respect of any profits of any business, Excess Profits Tax has been paid under that Act and Excess Profits Tax has been paid or, if there were no National Defence Contribution, would have been paid under the law in force in the United Kingdom.

1. These Rules may be cited as the Excess Profits Double Taxation (India and the United Kingdom) Rules.

2. In these Rules—

(i) the expression " Indian excess profits tax " means any excess profits tax payable in accordance with the provisions of the Excess Profits Tax Act, 1940 ;

(ii) " United Kingdom excess profits tax " means any excess profits tax payable under the law in force in the United Kingdom, or, where National Defence Contribution and Not Excess Profits Tax is payable, the amount of Excess Profits Tax that would be payable if there were no National Defence Contribution ;

(iii) the expression " chargeable accounting period " has in British India the meaning assigned to it in subsection (6) of section 2 of the Excess Profits Tax Act, 1940, and in the United Kingdom the meaning assigned to it in section 22 of the Finance (No. 2) Act, 1939.

3. Any reference in these Rules to the lower of the two rates shall, where the rates are equal, be construed as a reference to either of those rates.

4. These Rules shall have effect in respect of Indian excess profits tax charged for any chargeable accounting period in respect of which, under the law in force in the United Kingdom, relief is to be given in respect of the payment of Indian Excess Profits Tax.

5. If the person carrying on a business in any chargeable accounting period proves to the satisfaction of the Excess Profits Tax Officer that he has paid, in respect of any profits of the business in that period, Indian excess profits tax and that he has also paid, in respect of those profits, United Kingdom excess profits tax—

(i) there shall be computed the amounts of excess profits tax which would be payable in British India and the United Kingdom respectively, if excess profits tax in the other country and National Defence Contribution in the United Kingdom were disregarded except in computing capital ;

(ii) the amount of relief to be given in British India shall be the same proportion of the lesser of the amounts so computed as the amount so computed for British India bears to the sum of the two amounts so computed ;

(iii) if the amount so computed either for British India or for the United Kingdom is found to have been incorrect (whether by reason of a subsequent deficiency of profits or for any other reason), the amount so computed shall be recalculated and the relief in British India revised accordingly.

6. Where the chargeable accounting periods differ in British India and the United Kingdom, the tax chargeable for such periods shall be apportioned on a time basis to co-terminus periods as hereinafter defined, and relief shall be allowed under these Rules for those periods.

For this purpose, except so far as the Central Board of Revenue and the Board of Inland Revenue otherwise agree,—

(a) the first of the co-terminus periods shall commence on the first day on which double taxation commenced, and each succeeding co-terminus period shall commence at the expiration of the period immediately preceding ; and

(b) each of such co-terminus periods shall end at the end of the chargeable accounting period within which it commences, and, if the chargeable accounting periods differ for the purposes of the excess profits tax of the two countries, then at the end of that one of the chargeable accounting periods that ends first

7. For the purpose of these Rules the liability to excess profits tax of a principal company of a group of interconnected companies shall be taken to be the liability of that company in respect of its own business only.

Where, however, excess profits tax payable in respect of the business carried on by a subsidiary company is assessed on the principal company, relief shall be allowed to the subsidiary company as if the excess profits tax liability attributable to the business of the subsidiary company were separately assessed upon that company.

8. Every application for a refund of excess profits tax under this Notification shall be made to the Excess Profits Tax Officer of the district or circle in which the applicant is chargeable to excess profits tax. Such application may be presented by the applicant in person or by a duly authorised agent or may be sent by post, and shall be in the form prescribed in Rule 15 of the Excess Profits Tax Rules, 1940.

unt of Monsoon Rainfall in 1941.

the monsoon rainfall in India during the period June to September. All predictions of this type should aim to pass a statistical test of 80 per cent. success, or, in other words, to be correct four times out of five on the average over a long series of years. In some years however the known factors give conflicting indications and the risks arising then from the unknown factors either prevent the issue of any forecast of practical value or else force the issue of a forecast with less than the customary four-to-one chance of success.

The data for this year's forecasts are given in section 2 below; these are followed by notes on the relevant inferences that may be drawn from them.

2. Data.

Snow in the mountain region northwest of India.—Snowfall reports indicate that over the western Himalayas as a whole the accumulations at the end of May were normal.

Java.—The monthly rainfall departures from October 1940 to February 1941 were —77 per cent., —33 per cent., +1 per cent., +1 per cent. and —4 per cent. respectively.

Equatorial pressure.—Pressure was in excess by ·026″ at Port Darwin from March to May, by ·023″ at Batavia from January to April, and by ·026″ in Seychelles in February and March.

South Rhodesia.—Rainfall from October 1940 to April 1941 was in defect by 2·4″.

South America.—Pressure departures were —3·1 mm. and —0·6 mm. respectively in April and May in the Argentine Republic, and 0 mm. and +0·2 mm. in these months at Santiago (Chile).

Aleutian Islands.—Data not received.

3. Inferences from the Information.

For the Peninsula (taken to consist of Gujarat, the Konkan, the Bombay Deccan, the Central Provinces, Hyderabad and the north Madras coast), the factors found to be of most importance are, in the order of decreasing reliability, rainfall in South Rhodesia, pressure in South America and rainfall in Java. This year Java rainfall is very favourable, South Rhodesian rainfall is moderately favourable and South American pressure is very unfavourable. The evidence is therefore very conflicting and one's judgment must be based not so particularly on this year's factors as on the history of monsoon variability in past years. On the whole there is a 4 to 1 chance that the rainfall of June to September in the Peninsula will not be below 90 per cent. of the average.

For Northwest India (taken to consist of the United Provinces west, the Punjab, Kashmir, the North-West Frontier Province and Rajputana), the factors used are, in the order of decreasing reliability South Rhodesian rain, South American pressure, Equatorial pressure and snowfall accumulations in the Western Himalayas. Of these factors South Rhodesian rainfall is moderately favourable, snowfall accumulation is slightly favourable; Equatorial pressure is slightly unfavourable and South American pressure is very unfavourable. Here also the factors conflict, while indicating a defect to be more likely than an excess. To retain a 4 to 1 chance of success requires a wide tolerance in the forecast this year, the limits between which the rain total is likely to lie being as wide apart as 66 per cent. and 116 per cent. In words, this can be summarised thus : the rainfall of June to September in Northwest India is likely to be normal or somewhat in defect.

4. SUMMARY OF FORECAST.

The evidence is conflicting this year and the most that can be said is that monsoon rainfall in the Peninsula is not likely to be below 90 per cent. of the average and in northwest India will be either normal or somewhat in defect.

count of Monsoon Rainfall in 1941.

in parts of the world enable us to form an estimate, within somewhat wide limits, of the monsoon rainfall in India during the period June to September. All predictions of this type should aim to pass a statistical test of 80 per cent. success, or, in other words, to be correct four times out of five on the average over a long series of years. In some years however the known factors give conflicting indications and the risks arising then from the unknown factors either prevent the issue of any forecast of practical value or else force the issue of a forecast with less than the customary four-to-one chance of success.

The data for this year's forecasts are given in section 2 below; these are followed by notes on the relevant inferences that may be drawn from them.

2. DATA.

Snow in the mountain region northwest of India.—Snowfall reports indicate that over the western Himalayas as a whole the accumulations at the end of May were normal.

Java.—The monthly rainfall departures from October 1940 to February 1941 were —77 per cent., —33 per cent., +1 per cent., +1 per cent. and —4 per cent. respectively.

Equatorial pressure.—Pressure was in excess by ·026″ at Port Darwin from March to May, by ·023″ at Batavia from January to April, and by ·026″ in Seychelles in February and March.

South Rhodesia.—Rainfall from October 1940 to April 1941 was in defect by 2·4″.

South America.—Pressure departures were —3·1 mm. and —0·6 mm. respectively in April and May in the Argentine Republic, and 0 mm. and +0·2 mm. in these months at Santiago (Chile).

Aleutian Islands.—Data not received.

3. INFERENCES FROM THE INFORMATION.

For the Peninsula (taken to consist of Gujarat, the Konkan, the Bombay Deccan, the Central Provinces, Hyderabad and the north Madras coast), the factors found to be of most importance are, in the order of decreasing reliability, rainfall in South Rhodesia, pressure in South America and rainfall in Java. This year Java rainfall is very favourable, South Rhodesian rainfall is moderately favourable and South American pressure is very unfavourable. The evidence is therefore very conflicting and one's judgment must be based not so particularly on this year's factors as on the history of monsoon variability in past years. On the whole there is a 4 to 1 chance that the rainfall of June to September in the Peninsula will not be below 90 per cent. of the average.

For Northwest India (taken to consist of the United Provinces west, the Punjab, Kashmir, the North-West Frontier Province and Rajputana), the factors used are, in the order of decreasing reliability South Rhodesian rain, South American pressure, Equatorial pressure and snowfall accumulations in the Western Himalayas. Of these factors South Rhodesian rainfall is moderately favourable, snowfall accumulation is slightly favourable, Equatorial pressure is slightly unfavourable and South American pressure is very unfavourable. Here also the factors conflict, while indicating a defect to be more likely than an excess. To retain a 4 to 1 chance of success requires a wide tolerance in the forecast this year, the limits between which the rain total is likely to lie being as wide apart as 66 per cent. and 116 per cent. In words, this can be summarised thus : the rainfall of June to September in Northwest India is likely to be normal or somewhat in defect.

4. SUMMARY OF FORECAST.

The evidence is conflicting this year and the most that can be said is that monsoon rainfall in the Peninsula is not likely to be below 90 per cent. of the average and in northwest India will be either normal or somewhat in defect.
